THE STANDARD BY WHICH ALL OPEN-CLASS SPORTBIKES ARE MEASURED.

When the latest generation of our awesome CBR®1000RR debuted, it redefined just how good an open-class sportbike could be. And the enthusiast magazines thoroughly agreed, showering it with best-bike accolades. Well, guess what: we've taken what's already the best literbike out there and made it even better for 2010. And you can still choose between two versions, one with conventional brakes and one with our revolutionary new C-ABS™ system.

Key Features

- Compact, liquid-cooled engine features 16-valve DOHC design using titanium intake valves for a higher redline and a quicker-revving engine.
- Increased crankshaft-flywheel diameter for more inertia and improved performance.
- Dual Stage Fuel Injection (DSFI) with 46mm throttle bodies to optimize mixture atomization, combustion efficiency and power.
- Patented slipper-clutch design provides both a lighter clutch pull at the lever and reduces wheel hop when downshifting.
- MotoGP-derived, next-generation Honda Electronic Steering Damper™ (HESD™) offers speed-sensitive damping.
- CBR1000RR with optional ABS features Honda's electronic Combined ABS, the most advanced braking system we offer, and hailed by the press as a huge breakthrough.
